Grandparents' stories and questions that open conversation across generations

Conversation card for grandparents and grandchildren

1. What value did your grandfather teach you?
2. How did families gather in the past?
3. What tradition would you pass on to your grandchildren?

From conversation to draft

Choose a title, write down one memory, and describe what it taught you. You can preview the draft in your browser. Previewing sends no data.

You can add your name or family name before sending the story. Confirm consent in the form before submitting. The story is reviewed and published only with the permission of the people concerned.

Ask contributors before sharing their stories and protect children’s privacy.
